The Most Holy Trinity-June 15

Take a breath. No really.

If you're reading this after Mass, you've been still for about an hour and need a deep breath to go out the doors and live the "Ite missa est" of the Catholic faith. If you've been wrestling little ones for the past hour, then you're out of breath, and sorry, it's not a donut Sunday this week. Maybe you're "holding your breath," waiting for some big news. Maybe something your spouse, children, or grandchildren did this week "took your breath away." Maybe you're downloading or grabbing this bulletin and heading back to the bedside of a loved one who just can't "catch a breath." Breathing is essential to life. That's why respiration is so closely monitored when we're sick... that process of taking in air and letting it out. Even this automatic process of life is a reflection of the Holy Trinity. The filioque clause of the Creed expresses that the Spirit proceeds from both the Father and the Son. "He proceeds eternally from both as from one principle and through one spiration..." CCC 246 How did God give life to Adam? He breathed into him. He literally in-spired him with His own Spirit, making man a reflection of his Creator. The Father has given everything to the Son and the Son, whose own Body took a first and last breath, gives everything back to the Father. They are at once consubstantial and yet unique. And to us, quite a Mystery. We can't begin to understand the Trinity, yet we can believe with a simple faith that doesn't take a lot of thought... kind of like breathing. It is a great blessing that we celebrate fathers this weekend. The family has been called an icon of the Holy Trinity. As Father Pat has preached many times, the vocation that we are called to is a path to holiness. As the Trinity is holy, it is our vocation to become holy, and a father's unique role is to lead his family on that path. The Trinity is an eternal exchange of love. It is not stagnant, but life-giving at all times. Love is given, but it's also received. The Trinity does this perfectly and we aspire to it. Strong marriages are built on this kind of love. The perspiration it takes to raise a family, to be a good father, is a sign of this love. So take a breath, think about the Mystery of the Trinity, and say a Glory Be for your dad.
